SAGE has Launched the National Resource Center On LGBT Aging, October 11, 2010

[NEW YORK, NY] Services and Advocacy for Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual & Transgender Elders (SAGE) announced that its highly anticipated National Resource Center on LGBT Aging was launched October 11, 2010. October 11th is also National Coming Out Day, an internationally observed day that raises awareness about the many issues facing lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender (LGBT) communities.

SAGE is the world's largest and oldest organization dedicated to improving the lives of LGBT older adults. It accomplishes this through direct services and programs, training and technical assistance, and advocacy at the federal, state and local levels. Earlier this year, SAGE was awarded a three-year $900,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) and the Administration on Aging (AoA) to develop the nation's only resource center focused on assisting communities across the country in their efforts to provide supports and services for LGBT older adults.

"The launching of the National Resource Center on LGBT Aging represents a monumental step forward for our communities," said Michael Adams, executive director of SAGE. "It is fitting that we unveiled the site on National Coming Out Day, which acknowledges that LGBT older adults deserve to age with dignity and respect — and should be able to 'come out' and live openly as LGBT elders wherever they reside."

Over the next year, the National Resource Center on LGBT Aging will connect aging providers and LGBT organizations around the country with technical assistance, training and key resources to support LGBT older adults. In addition, the Resource Center will produce, over time, a highly interactive, multimedia site that will equip LGBT older adults and their loved ones with information on legal issues, caregiving, lifelong planning and housing, among other areas. The site will serve to broaden public awareness about the barriers facing LGBT older adults and the best practices for supporting them.

To create the Resource Center, SAGE forged a partnership with 10 national organizations with expertise in a wide range of areas including mainstream aging, LGBT aging, cultural competency and program evaluation. These organizations include the American Society on Aging, the Brookdale Center for Healthy Aging and Longevity, Centerlink (the national association of LGBT community centers), FORGE Transgender Aging Network, GRIOT Circle, the National Association of Area Agencies on Aging (n4a), the National Institute of Senior Centers (National Council on Aging), openhouse, PHI (a national training expert), and The LGBT Aging Project/Third Sector New England.

Breaking News

SAGE (US) Wins GLAAD Media Award in Advertising

On September 29th, the Gay & Lesbian Alliance Against Defamation (GLAAD) presented SAGE (US) a media award in advertising for its ad campaign showcasing SAGECAP (Caring & Preparing), SAGE's innovative LGBT program that supports caregivers as they offer care to aging loved ones. SAGE's award-winning campaign was funded by the Harry & Jeanette Weinberg Foundation. Viewed by an estimated 33 million people, the campaign in both English and Spanish ran for seven weeks in June and July 2010 in New York City subways, magazines, blogs and other publications. SAGE (US) won the award in the Outstanding Social Marketing category.

The GLAAD Media Award in Advertising honors individuals and projects in the advertising and marketing industries for their fair, accurate and inclusive representations of the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community.

Our Sages

Everyone has a story...and The SAGE would like to present as many of them as we can.

The backbone of SAGE of South Florida is its members. And we are sure each and every one of you has story to tell...whether it be an interesting hobby, a fabulous past life, or the new profession you took up after you "retired."

Our new series, Our Sages, will run at different times during the year, spotlighting the people you think merit a "shout out." If you know someone with an interesting story that you would like to nominate as a SAGE Sage, let us know. Call the office @ 954.634.7219, or better yet, drop us an email with the person's name, email address or phone number, and tell us in a couple of sentences why you think your friend is a Sage. We'd love to speak with them!

SAGE FRIENDLY SUPPORT PROGRAM

We'd like to think we are not merely fair weather friends, but people who really care about our SAGE family. If you know of any SAGE member who would appreciate a friendly call, is sick, in the hospital, recently lost a loved one, or just needs a note of cheer, please contact, for women, either Caroline Leto @ 954.925.6288, or, for men, Leo Glickstein @ 954.935.5799.

WEDNESDAY MEN'S DROP-IN

Ron Catena

As I buzz around town, I frequently run into guys I know enjoying lunch together, taking in a movie, shopping at one of the malls, or enjoying a drink at their favorite bar. And I realize I would not know a lot of these men if I did not attend the Men's Drop-In on a regular basis. Over the years that I have been attending the Drop-In meetings, I have met so many terrific guys – some of whom have become close friends.

I marvel at the number of guys who have formed little groups to enjoy a meal together, spend holidays at each other's homes, visit or call each other when illness strikes, or provide a ride to a medical appointment, or, better still, a ride to the airport as one leaves town for a vacation to some exotic locale.

So the Drop-In is more than a place to enjoy two hours of fun conversation with a group of interesting guys who are well informed, witty, and sophisticated.

The group meets every Wednesday from 1-3PM at the Pride Center. Stop by! If you have never attended, you will receive a warm welcome and perhaps make some good friends.

SAGE AT STONEWALL

Wayne Draper

The Girl Who Played with Fire. Steig Larsson.

When a young journalist approaches magazine publisher Mikael Blomkvist with a thesis about sex trafficking in Sweden, Blomkvist starts an investigation.

He's had no contact with tattooed wild-child and computer hacker extraordinaire Lisbeth Salander since they risked their lives on a terrifying hunt for a serial killer a year earlier, in The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo. But unknown to Blomkvist, Salander has had contact with him — or at least with his computer hard drive, which she has cloned and is monitoring from the vast new apartment she has bought with her fraudulently obtained fortune.

(Notes: (1) Our November 2010 selection is the 2nd book in the Millennium Trilogy. It might be helpful to be familiar with The Girl With the Dragon Tattoo, the 1st book in the trilogy. (2) Both novels have been made into Swedish-language movies, and are easily available at DVD movie rental outlets.)

We will meet on November 13th, 2010 at 2PM at the Stonewall Library, 1350 E. Sunrise Blvd., Ft. Lauderdale.

Any questions, please contact me. Thank you.

SEE YOU AT THE MOVIES

with John Gearrity and Carl M. Galli

In honor of Veteran's Day, and in light of the controversies swirling around DADT, it felt right to show a film with some relevance to these matters. Our November 15th movie is the 2004 Peabody Award-winning drama, *Soldier's Girl. The true story of a young soldier (Barry Winchell, played by Jane Fonda's gorgeous son Troy Garity) who falls in love with a transgendered entertainer (Calpernia Addams played by "Pushing Daisies" Lee Pace). And the tragedy which befalls them. A strong supporting cast (Andre Braugher, a standout Shawn Hatosy and Philip Eddolls among them), prompted the San Francisco Chronicle to say: "you'll rarely see acting this intense, focused or letter-perfect on any screen."

With the tagline "She was the only man he ever loved" you might expect something silly. But if you remember anything about the real story, you know that the outcome is quite different.

Originally produced for Showtime, and nominated for several Emmys and Golden Globes, Soldier's Girl was directed by Frank Pierson ("Dog Day Afternoon"; "Cool Hand Luke") and written by Ron Nyswaner ("Philadelphia"; "The Painted Veil"). This certainly has a pedigree far above most TV dramas.

From IMDb.com: "(I) was entranced by this amazing love story....The story was so loving and yet so tragic. As Calpernia says in the beginning of the movie, "I'm going to tell you a story, like all great stories, it is a love story. And like all great love stories, it's tragic." The movie broke my heart and I was ashamed to know that my country let this happen...Facing the homophobia of society is tough for any person... Barry Winchell was a resilient person to be able to take what he took from others, and not let them stop him from falling in love. Best movie I've seen based on a true story in awhile. I would recommend seeing it to anyone."

Soldier's Girl* screens at 4PM at the Pride Center's Room 206 on Monday, November 15th.

Rated R for sexual content, a scene of strong violence and language, it runs 112 minutes. And will certainly lead to discussion at dinner which follows.

Honoring our diverse family of residents and caregivers

When we began our relationship thirty-three years ago, we never thought of our lives together coming to this. Like many other families, Alzheimer's changed everything. I left the workforce to be Steve's full-time caregiver but his daily needs became more than I could provide all day, every day. It was very important to find a good, caring home for Steve.

After researching and visiting numerous facilities and homes between Kansas and Florida, a friend recommended The Cottages of Greenacres. When we visited, we found a wonderful place filled with loving and caring staff. We knew our search was over – we found the best place for Steve!

Looking back, it seems like a small sacrifice to move from Kansas to Florida so that Steve could live at The Cottages. They provide their residents with around the clock care, delicious meals, medication monitoring, and many enjoyable activities. The secured grounds where residents may walk or sit at their leisure, events that include family members, a support group, and many other services designed to meet the needs of the residents and their caregivers sets The Cottages apart. Although it is painful living without Steve in our life long home in Kansas, it is comforting to know he is very safe, comfortable and happy at The Cottages. TESTIMONIAL—CLIFF

Surviving an Army Witch Hunt

A Veteran's Story

By Carol Youngblood

In 1959 a starry-eyed Lorraine "Pinky" Luddy, 18 and fresh out of high school in Waterbury, Connecticut, enlisted in the Army. She says the straight women joined to find a husband, but the gay women enlisted because they were patriotic.

She was sent to Alabama for basic training and enjoyed the time, liked the Southerners she was meeting. After basic training she was assigned to Fort Jay on Governor's Island, situated in New York harbor facing the New York City skyline. The only way in and out was by ferry. With no crime, it was safe and soldiers were respected. And it was close to Connecticut, so she could go home on leave. All in all, it was a good place for a teenager to start her adult life.

Female soldiers lived separately from the men. They slept in cubicles, two to a room, with two cots and little other furniture. The cubicles were open on the top and the bottom, so there was no privacy. She and her roommate, Betty, were both gay, and Betty was dating a girl down the hall. One day Betty said her girlfriend wanted her to sleep with her that night. She and Pinky both thought that was a crazy idea, and Betty decided not to do it.

It was a weekend, and Pinky watched television in the downstairs TV room until 1 or 2 o'clock in the morning. The sergeant's room was nearby and as Pinky headed up to her quarters she passed the sergeant's room and saw Connie, a medic who had just returned from work, knocking on the door. Pinky asked, "What's up?" and Connie waved her off.

All this made Pinky remember what Betty had said, so she ran to their shared cubicle and, sure enough, no Betty. So she went to the girlfriend's cubicle. And there they were, Betty and her girlfriend, both drunk, sound asleep in the same bed. Pinky got Betty back to her own bed, where she fell asleep immediately. Pinky says, "After dragging her from the other woman's bed, I sat on my own bed shaking over how close she had come to being discovered. I could not believe she could be so stupid as to put her career at risk. I truly believed she had dodged a bullet. I did not realize I had just put my career on the line for her."

Shortly thereafter the Sergeant came into the cubicle and asked how long Betty had been there. Naturally, Pinky said that Betty was there when she came up from the TV room. The Sergeant believed Pinky was involved, but she couldn't prove it because Connie, the medic, had seen the two girls in bed but she hadn't seen Pinky move Betty.

Lorraine "Pinky" Luddy as a Starry-Eyed Recruit in 1959.

Pinky thought that the whole thing was over until she was "flagged" during an investigation of the incident. She couldn't play softball any more. Her assignment to Germany was canceled. She couldn't leave the base.

A week or two later the Army began a full-scale investigation headed by two male officers and one female officer. It was degrading. Friends avoided Pinky out of fear, but everybody was interrogated anyway. Many people gave names and there was much anger and fear, much shouting and crying. In the end some girls admitted to being gay. Pinky realized then that there was nothing she could have done to save her roommate. Betty brought down herself and many others with her.

No charges were filed against Pinky, and three years from the date she enlisted she received a Good Conduct Medal and an Honorable Discharge. She later went to school on the GI bill and bought a house through the VA. But she could just as easily have received a Dishonorable Discharge, which would have devastated her family. She calls it a lesson that cost her her innocence.

Pinky, herself, reflects: "I can look back now and know that I did the right thing. I tried to save a friend. I maintained my dignity and self respect through a difficult and dark time. This was an experience that struck at the heart of who I was and not just at my sexual orientation. I was a patriot, serving my country during covert operations in Vietnam. I would have laid down my life for my belief in these principles. War was coming and I would have reenlisted willingly. But my country did not want a patriot. They wanted a witch hunt. Fifty years later the witch hunt still continues."
